Delivery Method – 1 Mix Blended Learning

Blended learning is the combination of face-to-face class tutorials, self-study and online learning.

Class tutorials

Class tutorials are at six (6) weekly intervals and support the one (1) or two (2) units of competency the candidates are allocated to study during that period.

Class tutorials will include:

- Training & tuition
- Revision
- Opportunities for questions, answers and feedback
- Training on the next unit(s) of competency scheduled to be studied
- Underpinning knowledge assessment
- Practical assessment (as required for specified units of competency)

Candidate's contribution

Candidates will be required to complete the following in their own time:

- Research and study in accordance with the candidate study guide to meet the requirements of the program
- Study and prepare for the underpinning knowledge assessment. This will be completed in a supervised environment, without assistance
- Complete and submit the case scenario assessment
- Complete and submit the practical assessment (as required for specified units of competency)
- Take part in a workplace observation at mutually agreed times arranged with the assessor
- Provide supporting documentary evidence for the purposes of assessment

Delivery Method – 2

RPL

Recognition of prior learning means recognition of competencies currently held, regardless of how, when or where the learning occurred. These competencies may be attained through any combination of formal or informal training and education, work experience or general life experience.

Recognition of prior learning is available to candidates who have enough industry experience. Candidates with managerial experience seeking to specialise in Risk Management, security personnel with previous management experience, current industry specialists in allied fields i.e. military, police, corrections.

In order to grant RPL, the assessor must be confident that the candidate is currently competent against the endorsed industry or enterprise competency standards or outcomes, specified in Australian Qualifications Framework accredited courses.

Candidate could provide evidences in variety of forms that include certification, references from past employers, testimonials from clients and work samples.

The fee for RPL process may vary.

Where the candidate is not able to achieve the full qualification through RPL and gap training is required, a training plan and costing structure will be mutually agreed upon. The basis of the cost structure will be pro-rata on a unit by unit basis based on the scheduled course fee.

For further discussion contact VIGIL staff.
